Notes:

<sup>2</sup> Claimants who will be denied access to the federal program after exhausting state unemployment insurance benefits.

<sup>3</sup> Federal UI weeks are based on the trigger notice effective December 8th (http://workforcesecurity.doleta.gov/unemploy/euc\_trigger/2013/euc\_120813.html).

<sup>4</sup> Estimates exclude North Carolina where federal unemployment insurance benefits ended in July 2013 as a result of changes to state law.

* These states currently pay less than 26 weeks of regular state benefits, which is why the number of federal UI weeks is lower than states with comparable unemployment rates.
