

CHN Webinar: Poverty, Income, Health, and Work – What Can We Learn from the New Census Data?

Thursday, Sept. 6, 2008

2-3:30 p.m. ET

Click here to register.

Unemployment is down, but workers' pay is losing ground. Did low-income people make gains in 2017? What is helping; what's standing in the way?

CHN will hold its annual Census webinar to prep you for the new data coming out on September 12-13. You'll get the forecast from economic expert Jared Bernstein and training from CHN Executive Director Debbie Weinstein on how to get the facts for your community, congressional district, state and nation. Our Moderator is Ellen Teller, Director of Government Affairs at the Food Research & Action Center.

Will we reduce poverty if we require people to report weekly work in order to get health care and food assistance? That's what the Trump Administration wants. The snapshot and trends in the annual Census survey data can help us answer questions about what reduces poverty and increases wages and income – and what doesn't. Jared Bernstein famously and clearly analyzes economic trends in the Washington Post, New York Times, MSNBC, and as Senior Fellow at the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities. He'll tell you what to watch for, and what it means. CHN's Debbie Weinstein will show you just where to find the data you need, and how to use it to move the decision-makers.

Register for the webinar today! Registrants will receive all the slides, the full recording, and follow-up materials – essential resources for navigating the Census website.

Click here to register.

This webinar will feature captioning and an ASL interpreter.