

GROUP LETTER SUPPORTING RESPONSIBLE BUDGET AND DEBT POLICIES

May 22, 2023

Dear Representative/Senator:

The undersigned 713 organizations come together to urge you to support responsible policies to strengthen our nation and build shared prosperity. Broadly shared public investments have throughout our history enhanced our economic security. Investments during the pandemic made it possible to stop a deep recession in its tracks. Now we face a choice: will we reverse our hard-won progress and risk economic decline? Or will we continue our progress by investing in our people?

The signers of this letter represent human service providers, faith groups, policy experts, labor, civil rights, disability, veterans, and other anti-poverty advocates who see the precarious position of our people nationwide. We are alarmed at calls to dramatically cut or cap spending on key anti-hunger, health, housing, early childhood, and other programs and urge you to reject efforts to take away assistance from people with low incomes or impose administrative barriers that make it harder for people to access needed assistance, including those facing food and housing insecurity, struggling with health and care costs, and dealing with other hardships that make it harder to make ends meet. The end of the public health emergency means that Medicaid, SNAP, housing and other benefits that are still needed by millions of people are shrinking or ending. Congress should be responding to unmet need; it must not make things worse.

There are proposals in Congress that would substantially cut and/or cap vital programs such as SNAP nutrition assistance, Medicaid, and the full range of annually appropriated domestic and international needs. These cuts would threaten our economy. Moody's Analytics economist Mark Zandi and colleagues warn that deep spending cuts could trigger "a recession in 2024, costing the economy 2.6 million jobs at the worst of the downturn and pushing unemployment to a peak of near 6 percent."

Instead, we must strengthen these investments. Putting the needs of people with the lowest incomes first is both a moral and an economic imperative. It is critical that policies do more to address longstanding disparities by race and income, including maternal mortality, food insecurity, and gaps in access to affordable and accessible housing, health care, and education, along with addressing challenges for women, children and youth, older adults, people with disabilities, LGBTQIA individuals, survivors of violence, veterans, rural communities, and others. Deep cuts to anti-poverty policies will take us backwards and make us less able to sustain future economic growth.

Responsible budget choices mean support for increasing revenues from wealthy individuals and corporations, both by collecting what they owe under current law and by fair new tax policies targeting the wealthiest and corporations. Responsibility also requires you to reduce wasteful spending. Congress can do this through strategies such as expanding drug price negotiations, reducing excessive payments for corporate military contractors, and limiting detention and incarceration. With fair and adequate revenues plus well-targeted savings that do not reduce needed services, Congress can fund the investments we need and still make substantial reductions in the deficit.

Below are some of the important policies we want to highlight as areas of concern:

- The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) is our nation's most significant and effective anti-hunger program; it promotes economic security, health, and well-being. A number of studies have shown SNAP to reduce food insecurity by as much as 30 percent, and even more among children. Our nation must do more to address hunger and SNAP has a key part to play. Congress should reject any proposals that take food assistance away from families, or efforts to weaken SNAP's effectiveness, including proposals to further undermine access to SNAP for unemployed and underemployed people (which force harsh time limits to assistance), including those with children age 7 and up. We ask you to work to strengthen SNAP and protect the program from cuts or other harmful changes.
- Medicaid covers more than 93 million people, providing low-cost, efficient health care to low-income children, adults, people with disabilities, and seniors. Expanded Medicaid coverage has played a key role in reducing the number of people struggling to access health care, while strengthening the financial health of hospitals in rural communities. Some policymakers have proposed to cut Medicaid by over one-third along with cuts to the Children's Health Insurance Program, taking coverage away from millions of people. Instead of cutting or capping Medicaid or CHIP, we urge Congress to do more to close the Medicaid coverage gap. [\[MD8\]](#) Further, Congress should invest in our communities by expanding the Medicaid Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) program, to hire more care workers at better pay to serve more people with disabilities and older adults, more than 600,000 of whom languished on waiting lists in 2021.
- Domestic and international discretionary funding in the annual appropriations bills support a wide range of important services including housing and home energy assistance for families with low incomes (at a time of soaring rental costs), child care, Head Start and other early childhood development programs, K-12 and higher education, public health investments and veterans medical care, substance use and mental health treatment, food assistance via the WIC program and programs for older Americans, rural development programs, and much more. Cuts down to FY 2022 levels, targeted solely at domestic and international appropriations, would result in 640,000 families losing access to Housing Choice Vouchers, according to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development; 100,000 children will lose access to child care, 200,000 children will lose access to Head Start, and 1 million older adults will not receive food assistance via Meals on Wheels, as estimated by U.S. Health and Human Services; the Department of Agriculture estimates that WIC would be forced to serve 1.5 million fewer women, infants, and children than the number of participants now projected for FY 2024. The Department of Labor projects 870,000 job training, apprenticeships, senior community service and other employment services would be eliminated. The proposed cuts would not only create additional hardships for many families, they also could create additional worker shortages, from terminated positions, discontinued training, or lack of the child care needed so parents can work. Some proposals would do even more damage, by caps on domestic and international appropriations that would shrink services year after year. After Congress imposed caps starting in FY 2011, we failed to keep pace with needs in education, public health, housing, infrastructure, and other priorities. We need to catch up, not fall farther behind.

We also underscore that a responsible approach to the federal budget requires you to support a clean increase in or suspension of the debt ceiling. Members of Congress must not threaten default. A group of over 200 economists, some conservative, some liberal, and including several Nobel laureates, warned in a letter to Congressional leaders of a potential “swift and severe economic downturn” along with highly likely “chaos in world financial markets.” Congress can debate future spending; it must not threaten default on spending it has already enacted.

The decisions you make around investments to keep pace with need, adequate and fair revenues, and protections against dangerous cuts and default will have profound consequences for every American. We urge you to choose responsibility over recklessness, to ensure shared prosperity and to prevent self-inflicted wounds to our economy.

Sincerely,

20/20 Vision DC
